We are getting ready for Kemiri. We went to the resort Jamur Gele, Gayo Luwes. It was about an hour drive from Kuning Abadi. All us going accompanied by Pak Sabil. We met with Pak Kepala Seksi (KASI) of Gayo Luwes and the Resort Head, Pak Frans. We talked about the camp and trail situation on Kemiri and numbers of porters and guides we need.

We went to Park Division "Bidang" Office in Kutacane for specimen inspection. They cleared up the paperwork for Bandahara.

We went back to Resort Jamur Gele to meet with porters, guides, and Park Officials. We discussed about porter prices and the camp plans. We decided to split our trip into two camps. The first camp would be at Bivak I, near the edge of the forest, whereas the second camp would be at Bivak III just below the plateau near the summit. These two camps were the most suitable for our needs: large enough space and close to water sources. We dropped our initial plan to only stay in one camp. The Bivak II campsite seems to small for our needs and was too far from water.

Inayah, Darwin, Lutfi, and Akbar accompanied by Sabil's wife went buying groceries and some other field supplies. Fajar and I stayed at Sabil's house packing and organizing our field supplies.

We hike to Bivak I. We had a total of 39 bags, but only 37 porters. The porter fee was Rp 200k per bag. Several of the porters split the bag into two. We started hiking at 11 am. We stopped at Leuser NP's Post Pantau for lunch. We then continued hiking to Bivak I. We arrived in Bivak I at around 14:00. Bivak I is a campsite near a pondok belong to a local Gumpang Lempuh. The park ranger suggest us to just camp around it because the local charge us to stay in his pondok. We decided to pay the fees and used their pondok as our main camp. Inayah and Lutfi stay in the pondok, while the rest of us built our tents around it.

Fajar and I hiked to Bivak II and started trapping from there until Shelter 4. We set 79 traps total. We called it KMHH-L1. Darwin set trap started near Shelter 3 continued down to Shelter 1. Inayah and Lutfi set trap in the plantation and shrubby land nearby. Akbar set 8-bucket pitfall line near KMHH-L1. I called it KMHH-PL1. He set another line with the same number of buckets near Darwin's trap line. It would be included in Darwin's catalog.

Indonesia: Aceh; Gayo Lues; Putri Betung; Gumpang Lempuh, Gunung Kemiri, Bivak I

Fajar and I caught 7 rats from KMHH-L1. Inayah and Lutfi caught 9 rats from KMNI-L1. Akbar did not have shrew in the pitfall KMHH-PL1. He caught two in the pitfall near Darwin's line. Akbar set another 8-bucket line of pitfalls near KMNI-L2. I included it in that line, called it KMNI-PL2 in the site coordinate information. Fajar and I set a line of 81 snap traps running from Shelter 5 to Shelter 6.

Indonesia: Aceh; Gayo Lues; Putri Betung; Gumpang Lempuh, Gunung Kemiri, Bivak I

Fajar and I caught 2 shrews from KMHH-PL1, 3 rats from KMHH-L1, 9 rats and 1 squirrel from KMHH-L2. Inayah and Lutfi caught 1 rat from KMNI-L1; 2 tree-shrews, 6 rats KMNI-L2. Nothing from KMNI-PL2. Fajar and I added 1 snap trap to KMHH-1 and 37 snap traps to KMHH-L2

Indonesia: Aceh; Gayo Lues; Putri Betung; Gumpang Lempuh, Gunung Kemiri, Bivak I

Fajar and I caught four rats from KMHH-L1 and 2 gymnures, 1 shrew, and 13 rats from KMHH-L2. Inayah and Lutfi caught 6 rats from KMHH-L2.

Fajar and I removed all the traps from our line. We carried them to Shelter 6 and left them there, so that we didn't need to porter the traps to the planned Camp 2. Darwin also did the same for his high elevation 40 traps. Shelter 6 is about 2.4 km from our planned Camp 2.

Darwin still had 40 traps set on his line near Shelter 2. Inayah and Lutfi removed all of their traps. Akbar still has 8-bucket pitfall line set at KMNI-PL2.

Indonesia: Aceh; Gayo Lues; Putri Betung; Gumpang Lempuh, Gunung Kemiri, Bivak I

I hiked with two guides (Pak Johan and Bang Amsyah) to setup the Camp 2. We carried 8 x 8 m tarp, small pot, a frying pan, some foods, my tents, a shared Coleman tent, and my personal stuff. We left camp at 10:30. On our hike, I met Akbar on his way down to Camp 1 from checking and removing his last pitfalls at KMNI-PL2. He showed me a Chiropodomys that he caught from the pitfall line, our first Chiropodomys from the trip. In also had 3 shrews with him. When I reached Shelter 1, I met Darwin on his way down to the camp. He collected 4 rats from his line.

Our guides took his time hiking the mountain. I waited for them several time. I started to worry we wouldn't make it to our planned Camp 2 at Bivak III. I was at Shelter 1 for at least 15 minutes, then Shelter 3 for 30 minutes. I decided to continue hiking until I reach Bivak II, just above Shelter 3. I arrived at Bivak II at 12:15. The guides did not show up until passed 13:00. We had lunch at Bivak II. I continued our hike at 13:45.

The guides wanted to camp at Shelter 6 (also known as Camp Putri). We hit it at 15:45. I asked them to hike until Bivak III. In my calculation, we would make it to the camp site by 6. It would avoid us having to set up tents twice. They agreed. We left Shelter 6 at 16:00 to continue to Bivak III. I made it at 17:30. Pak Johan arrived at 18:00 and followed by Pak Amsyah at 18:12. We set up our tent cooking and had dinner. At 21:15, I was ready to go to bed.

We met Inayah, Akbar, and Lutfi and some of the porters from Gumpang Lempuh on the way up Camp 2. Inayah, Akbar, and Lutfi helped us set some of the traps.

Fajar and I caught 11 rats and 2 gymnures. Inayah and Lutfi caught 2 rats (both are our first R. hoogerwerfi for the mountain). Darwin came back with some more R. hoogerwerfi later on. Akbar, Pak Johan, and Bang Amsyah set 7-bucket pitfall line at KMHH-L2 and 8-bucket pitfall at KMNI-L3.

Indonesia: Aceh; Gays Lues; Putri Betung; Gumpang Lempuh, Gunung Kemiri, Bivak III

Fajar and I collected 8 animals. Inayah and Lutfi collected 12 specimens. Akbar set a 8-bucket pitfall line near the end of KMHH-L2. called it KMHH-PL2B. Inayah added 30 snap traps to KMNI-L3.

Indonesia: Aceh; Gays Lues; Putri Betung; Gumpang Lempuh, Gunung Kemiri, Bivak III

Fajar and I went up from the camp to set 100 snap traps. We started setting them from Shelter 8 to Bivak IV. Bivak IV was only 1 km from the summit. I called the trap line KMHH-L3. Inayah, Lutfi, and Supriadi added the 30 snap traps they removed yesterday started from the end of KMNI-L3. Akbar, Johan, and Amsyah set 8-bucket pitfall line at the start of KMHH-L3 near Shelter 8. I called it KMF PL3A.

Fajar and I collected four rats from KMHH-L3. Akbar collected two shrews and one rat from KMHH-PL2B, one shrew from KMNI-P and one shrew from KMHH-PL3. Inayah and Lutfi collected two rats from KMNI-L3. Akbar, Johan, and Amsyah set two lines of pitfalls. The first line was right near the end of KMNI-L3. I called it KMNI-PL3C. The second one was in the middle KMNI-L3, in the first mossy forest above camp just before the dry creek. I called it KMNI-PL3B. Fajar and I set the smaller 2L bucket pitfall line just before the end of KMHH-L3. I called it KMHH-PL3B. We also added 40 traps at the end of KMHH-L3 to the summit. The last trap was right at the summit statue.

Akbar collected a shrew from KMNI-L3B and another shrew from KMHH-L3. Fajar and I collected three rats and two gymnures. Inayah, Lutfi, and Supriadi collected four rats from KMNI-L3.

Fajar and I removed 71 traps from KMHH-L3. Awal found one of our trap on a trail and took it with him yesterday. It was probably accidentally dropped from our bag when we carry the traps down the summit. In total we had removed 72 traps.

I also removed two InkBird sensors we each set at Shelter 8 and Bivak IV. We also had a thermometer in Camp 2. Some general summary:

Bivak IV lowest temperature was 8.12 degree Celsius. The lowest humidity was 86.78 percent RH and the highest was 88 percent RH. The highest temperature was 22.22 degree Celsius. At Shelter 8, the lowest temperature was 6.75 degree Celsius. The lowest humidity was 81.41 percent RH and the highest was 91.31 degree Celsius. At Camp 2, using Thermopro thermometer, we measured 7.5 degree Celsius as the lowest temperature and 22.5 degree Celsius as the highest temperature. The highest humidity was 99 percent and the lowest was 58 percent.

Supriadi contacted the Jamur Gele resort head, Frans, about the porters. We would need 17 porters from the village and asked Rp 500k for each bag, plus Rp 50k per person to cover their foods. After talking to Frans, Supriadi told us no one at Gumpang Lempuh wanted to do it for Rp 500k. They needed four days payment (two days empty hike to the camp and two days coming down carrying bags). ' refused to agree. Supriadi made another contact with the local Gumpang Lempuh that we would ask local Marpunge to carry our bags. The Marpunge folks agreed with the payment and told us they only need two days to do the portering. Supriadi asked the Gumpang Lempuh folks for security of his people from Marpunge, especially their bikes that they would leave at Bivak I.

Fajar and I collected a rat. It's look like Mus crociduroides. This was our first capture at over 3,000 m trap line. It seems more brown the upper part and more grey at the underpart compare to Mus crociduroides we collected south of Toba. It resembled Maxomys hylomyoides coloration but with soft fur. Inayah, Lutfi, Supriadi, and Akbar got nothing from pitfalls nor snap traps in their lines. We pulled all traps and pitfalls today.

Supriadi confirmed that the Marpunge locals would be our porters going down. They would hike early morning the next day.

We spent all morning packing specimens and get the duffle bag ready. At 13:45, The first few porters arrived from Marpunge. All 17 porters we needed arrived at 15:00 at the latest. Some of them camped in the campsite down my tent. The other set up a couple of tents under our main camp tarp. Their leader, Pak Suparno, joined Supriadi in his tent.

Everyone started making noise at 5:30. I had already awake, It didn't bother me much. After breakfast and cleaning the camp site we took photos with the guides and all our porters. We went down the mountain at around 10.

At around 12:30, Fajar, Darwin, Awal, and I made it to Bivak I, which is the last pondok where we first camp. Upon arrival, we witnessed the destruction of porters' motorbike. It seemed like the Gumpang villagers did not happy for not getting hired by us to porters the bags.

It was a terrifying situation. We were worried the perpetrators were still near the areas and could harm us. Thankfully, until the rest the team showed up, nobody was there beside us. I called Pak Sabil to standby and if they could report to the police in nearby Gumpang. Pak Sabil arrived in Gumpang a few hours later with Pak Gondrong. Soon afterward, the police was there as well. I waited for the rest of the team to arrive.

At 3, Inayah, Akbar, Lutfi, and some guides arrive. She made more calls reassuring the police to stand by. We tried to contact the park office in Jamur Gele. Frans, their local head for Jamur Gele resort, rejected taking responsibility, although he was the person giving approval to hired porters from other villages. We took the matter on our own and helped the park field coordinator, Supri, to solve the issues.

Later on, other issues emerged. Two of our porters had minor injuries. It slowed them getting down the mountain. We decided to wait for everyone to arrive at the pondok before going down to the village.

I skipped my lunch and was having a bad headache and threw up twice. We had no foods left and only have one functional vehicle. The porters and the guides tried their best to shuttle the bags to the park post at a half way between the village and the pondok. Some of them would stay there overnight. Pak Suparno and Pak Supri went to the village to meet with the police, whereas the rest of the porters stayed in the pondok.

At around 20:00 the rest of the porters arrived. Soon later, Pak Suparno arrived bringing foods. We all ate. Around 22:00, the police chief asked to go down to the village. We arrived there by midnight. We explained the situation to the police. They told us to go back to Pak Sabil house to rest and come back the next day to solve the situation.

We drove back to Gumpang to meet with the police, our porters, and guides. We took Pak Sabil's car and a pickup car rented in the Kuning Abadi. Pak Gondrong drove us there. We arrived at around 10:30. Inayah and I went to Jamur Gele resort to meet our guides pay their salary and buy lunch for all the porters, police, and locals involved in solving the motorbike vandalism. Inayah and I came back in the village at 1. We all had lunch. Since the morning, the porters have started shuttling our bags from the pondok or the post to the village. They finished at around 3. After discussion with the locals, village chief, and police chief, we decided we would contribute to the motorbike repairment costs. Pak Suparno, one of the porters, invited us to his home in Marpunge. We spent about an hour in his house then head back to Kuning Abadi and stayed at Pak Sabil's house.

We worked on packing and sending most of the gears through cargo and left only the gears that Darwin would take back to LSU and the specimens. We shipped most of them through Indah Cargo in Kutacane. We could not ship ~20L leftover formalin. We also finished splitting and repacking the specimens. Pak Sabil arranged one Innova and his car to drive us to Banda Aceh.

We left for Banda Aceh at around 9. We took photos with Pak Sabil and his family before we left. Pak Gondrong drove his car to Banda Aceh with all of the gears. Akbar accompanied him in the car. The rest of us in Toyota Innova owned by Pak Sabil's relative. We decided to drive all the way to Banda Aceh with a lunch stop in Blankejeren and dinner stop at Takengon. We had a quick stop in some warung along the way. Just after midnight, we were close to Banda Aceh. We decided to stop at the last restaurant an hour from Banda Aceh. We stayed there until morning. Then continued to Banda Aceh.

We went to meet Pak Gondrong and our Innova driver's relative near the port at Banda Aceh. In the afternoon, Fajar and I drove Darwin to the airport and on the way back, we tried to ship the left over formalin again. After several rejection, we got acceptance from J&T cargo. We then went back to Pak Gondrong's relative place near the port. We had fish BBQ there and then went back to the hotel.

We went to BKSDA to get domestic transport permit (SAT-DN). The BKSDA also gave us letter of recommendation to get the quarantine clearance. It took a whole morning to receive the recommendation from BKSDA. We then went back to the hotel to pick my bags.

By lunch time, we were on the way to the airport. All the Indonesians came with me. We had lunch on the way. They then dropped at the airport. The rest of the team went to quarantine at the airport to arrange the transport clearance.

Inayah, Alfath, Fajar, Nia, Lutfi, and Akbar met me at Amaris early morning. Okta drove them from Cibinong. We took photos and then drove to the Soekarno-Hatta airport, except Nia and Alfath went back to MZB.

We drove straight to quarantine to get the export clearance. The process was quite smooth. We then realized that, Inayah left the old dewar at MZB. We asked Alfath and Nia to take Grab and drove with the dewar to meet us at the airport. They arrived at the airport when we had lunch at Solaria T2. After lunch we went to T3 to get ready for check in. The gate open at 4. After check in they did not sure we could take the specimens with us. I spent a couple hours waiting and talking to them to convince them that we have all the paperwork needed to import the specimen in the U.S. They decided to email Qatar staffs, which we suspect, in the U.S. A half an hour before boarding the airplane, they let us through.

I said goodbye and flew to Doha. After a few hours transit in Doha, I flew to Dallas. In Dallas, they asked my paperwork. I got help from Dallas porters to carry all my bags. It took over an hour of waiting while a customs officer ask relevant institutions to make sure we have all the necessary paperwork. They let me though after a call from U.S. CDC and Fish and Wildlife. I tipped the porter $20. Around mid-afternoon, I arrived in Baton Rouge. Jake picked me up at the airport then drove to campus to drop the specimens.
